History

NORTHCOTE ESTATE

The Northcote Estate located on North Lake's west-facing shore is rich in history. The land was originally the location of a fur trader's cabin in the mid 1800's. This gracious residence was designed by renowned architect Richard Phillips and built in 1920. Much of the elaborate wood cabinetry, beams and trim were constructed from lumber grown and milled on the property. Recent renovations and additions have preserved the period charm and include enhanced modern amenities.

This legacy property was owned by three generations of the Gustov Reuss family. The patriarch, Gustov Reuss, was a German immigrant who became president of Marshall & Ilsley Bank from 1904-1907. The next owner was Gustov's son, also named Gustov. He became Vice President of M&I years later. The third generation of the Reuss family to own Northcote was Henry S. Reuss. Henry was a 14-year term Wisconsin Congressman and chairman of the House Banking Committee. As an influential congressman, it is said

Henry and his wife Margie hosted many interesting and prominent guests at Northcote, including Chief Economic Advisor to JFK, John Kenneth Galbraith, Bobby Kennedy, Teddy Kennedy, and many more.

For each of these generations, it served as a three-month summer residence. What is now the guest house was originally a four-bedroom servants' quarters. The carriage house and its attached apartment was occupied by Rudy, the family chauffeur.

Richard Weening, legislative assistant to the Congressman then acquired Northcote. In the mid 1980's, Richard planted nearly 3,000 vines along the rolling hills and pastures of the Kettle Moraine topography and became somewhat famous for hosting elaborate harvest parties where guests participated in boisterous competitions on the authentic petanque court. The Northcote wine label was established and was served in many local restaurants and bars.
